Prince HRH Alwaleed Bin Talal Centre of Islamic Studies

Partners:

The Alwaleed Cultural Network

The Alwaleed Cultural Network connects leading universities, museums and cultural institutions across three continents to change lives through culture. Our centre is a founding member of this innovative cultural network that aims to bring universities, museums, theatres, art galleries and other cultural institutions together.

For more information see the website.

The Gulf Research Centre Cambridge

The Gulf Research Centre Cambridge (GRC-C) has been established by the Geneva-based Gulf Research Centre with the view of fostering and promoting academic studies and policy oriented research on the Gulf region – i.e. the Gulf Cooperation Council member countries of Bahrain, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates as well as Iran, Iraq and Yemen. GRC-C also aims to encourage scholarly cooperation and exchange between Gulf-based and UK-based academics through organising conferences, seminars, workshops and meetings related to Gulf issues and through publication of its research output.

The Gulf Research Centre Cambridge is a registered charity organization under the Charity Commission for England and Wales and can therefore receive tax deductible donations.

The annual Gulf Research Meeting takes place in July each year at the University of Cambridge.

GRC-C encourages scholars interested in the Gulf region to contact us with the view of cooperation at the following address:

Gulf Research Centre-Cambridge
Centre of Islamic Studies, Faculty of Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, University of Cambridge
Sidgwick Avenue, Cambridge CB3 9DA, UK